Biographical note:

From State of Wisconsin Muster Rolls: Adam Jungbluth was born in Germany on August 31, 1828 in Udenheim, Hesse-Darmstadt, Germany to Heinrich Jungbluth (1798-1869) and Maria Catharina Ahr Jungbluth⁴⁸ (1800-1872). At some point either Adam or possibly his parents changed their name to Youngblood as a U.S. Citizen much later in life. Adam listed his occupation in Menominee Township (Waukesha County, Wisconsin) as a farmer. He married Christine Becker on February 12, 1854 in Germantown, Washington County, Wisconsin. Witnesses to their marriage were Peter Becker and Heinrich Jungbluth. They had a total of 13 children, Dorothea, Heinrich, Cardine, Adam, Jno, Friedrich, Peter, Christina, Lydia, George, Henrietta, Sophia M. and Gustav A. Adam Youngblood was drafted in Menominee and enlisted in the Union Army for a 1 year term on December 1, 1864. He was 33 years old at the time of his enlistment and had gray eyes.
His actual length of service was 6 months and 14 days achieving the rank of Private. He died on March 19, 1882 (location of burial site and state not mentioned).
