RECEPTION OF LIEUT.-GEN. GRANT.
GRAND Ovation.
UNION HALL PACKED.
TEN THOUSAND PERSONS PRESENT.
As previously announced Lieut.-Gen. Grant, staff arrival in the city Saturday at 3 o'clock. A vast crowd were gathered at the depot to welcome him. He arrived in a general train, to which Gen. Grant, and other generals and staff, escorted by the Committee of the great Fair, on horseback, proceeded to Union Hall, where he was met by Gen. Grant, Gen. Terry, and a large number of gentlemen and ladies.

Upon stepping from the cars the Great was greeted with loud and continued cheers. The streets were filled, and all the店 were within a short distance of the Hall, full.

The Committee of the Fair, Gen. Grant, Gen. Terry, and a large host of distinguished gentlemen and ladies, met him at the Hall.

On entering the hall, Gen. Grant, with his staff on his right and left, made his way to the dais, where he was met by Gen. Terry, who introduced him, and Gen. Grant returned the compliment.

Mr. T. S. Dunnington, of Chicago, introduced and thanked Gen. Grant.

Fellow citizens, President Lincoln, and Gen. Grant, said the President had been notified by Gen. Grant that he would be at the Hall in less than an hour, and he had not been tardy for the moment. He was, and had always been, glad to receive the Hon. President's report, and had had a very cordial reception from the people of the United States, and the people of the world at large.

Gen. Grant, in a cordial speech, said he had never been more cordially greeted than by the people of the United States, and had always been glad to receive the Hon. President's report, and had had a very cordial reception from the people of the United States, and the people of the world at large.

Gen. Grant, in a cordial speech, said he had never been more cordially greeted than by the people of the United States, and had always been glad to receive the Hon. President's report, and had had a very cordial reception from the people of the United States, and the people of the world at large.

Gen. Grant, in a cordial speech, said he had never been more cordially greeted than by the people of the United States, and had always been glad to receive the Hon. President's report, and had had a very cordial reception from the people of the United States, and the people of the world at large.

Gen. Grant, in a cordial speech, said he had never been more cordially greeted than by the people of the United States, and had always been glad to receive the Hon. President's report, and had had a very cordial reception from the people of the United States, and the people of the world at large.

Gen. Grant, in a cordial speech, said he had never been more cordially greeted than by the people of the United States, and had always been glad to receive the Hon. President's report, and had had a very cordial reception from the people of the United States, and the people of the world at large.