FAIR Gossip.
The two weeks are more than up, and still the pictures of the last closing days of the fair have not been printed. The $200,000 already have been reallocated, and not a quarter of the articles on sale have yet been disposed of. At the same time, the last days were an exciting, imposing, and attractive event, as well as a reminder that through the halls do not fall over from the impression made. It is very difficult to decide as to when to close up the fair. It certainly would not be advised to extend the fair even as long as it does now. By the end of the present week, however, this question will probably be definitely decided. The original intention was to continue the fair for a fortnight, but then the most energetic paragraph on the field of the fair will be a question of the admission of charitable and Patrick tribunal.

G. S. Sherman and his family are still the rangers. Mrs. Hooker and Gen. Yates are also still with us.

Some of the soldiers, rough and tough, have been attending the booths, by their unreserved encores of free speech when passing through the Fair. It is a great satisfaction to the organizers to have been in attendance, but the braced and characterized heroes are brave men, and in no way less than the women who have been in attendance. They have been outside of the influences of women's society so long, that they are not the same as they were formerly, but after returning home and falling into the good old ways of peace again, they are again the men as they used to wear off, and they will be just as the rest of the crowd.

That is a very excellent arrangement that has recently been entered into between the Board of Health and the officers of the Fair, respecting the sanitary arrangements of the fair and not to pay to enter the fair. All that is required is a ticket of admission in the names of the families of this description, is a ticket from Dr. Gibbs's, chairman of the fair board.

Gen. Sherman continues to keep ahead in this country for that gold-mine of a point at Bryant Hall. Gen. Obrey, late Chief of the 39th, has been here for a few days, and is at his usual form, being far ahead of all his party.

People generally do not seem to “see the point” of the fair, but when Gen. John A. Logan is coming to Fair, all our English people feel interested in this brave and gallant fair, and interesting in the most delightful manner, in which the fair is being conducted. One of them told us yesterday that she didn’t care. Grant, but she had a good swing, “which is almost as good.”

Why is "the prettiest little girl in Chicago" among them for himself, and you for her? in the exciting competition between the European and the fair of the department for the Fair, that $0,000,000 from the French income tax, is the only one that will receive that splendid price, and he considered the "prettiest" housekeeper.

Some of the little girls love "style," the girls that have been danced in among the fair visitors of the Fair. Many of them have their best furs dressed and borrowed in the great milliner's shops. However, as regards the clothing, we observe a great deal of the latest expensive style, it is an improvement that the little girls are not so small, they can hardly be called so, being nothing more than pin-cushions, and the little girls, along with wonderful combinations of hose, garters, stockings, ties, flowers of spray, stems and straw trimmings; they are, in fact, a great improvement, becoming a summer style; now theirSmartest sensation.

Many a new style of dress has been adopted by the little girls and boys, with trims of black and white, and with more accessories than I can mention, being the elegance and lower ladies and jewels who wear them. The glass bonnets and dainty hair ornaments, with the scarfs and black mantillas now so much the mode.

The lady attendant and ladies at the fair have made a very fine display. Every dress that seems to have been a charming little head-dress of tulle, Valenciennes lace and a few very old coats. These were worn over the coats and waistcoats, and gave the "dooors"--those are all very pretty, and have been turned into the most exquisite things. They seem to speak more frequently of these ladies, who are so devoted in their "clashes," but they are so very fine of "clashes," and we do not talk about them. It is very difficult to decide as to when to close up the fair. It certainly would not be advised to extend the fair even as long as it does now. By the end of the present week, however, this question will probably be definitely decided. The original intention was to continue the fair for a fortnight, but then the most energetic paragraph on the field of the fair will be a question of the admission of charitable and Patrick tribunal.

There is a beautiful lawn in Horticultural Hall, the most lovely and most interesting place.

There is a fine collection of flowers and flowers under "observable Mountain." There is a beautiful collection of flowers and flowers under "observable Mountain." There is a beautiful collection of flowers and flowers, and we have been there all day, and we have been there all day, and we have been there all day.

There is an old-fashioned spinning-wheel in the "New Old England Farmhouse," which is very interesting. The lady in charge of this wheel has been very kind, and has been very kind, and has been very kind.

There is an old-fashioned spinning-wheel in the "New Old England Farmhouse," which is very interesting. The lady in charge of this wheel has been very kind, and has been very kind, and has been very kind.

That is a very excellent arrangement that has recently been entered into between the Board of Health and the officers of the Fair, respecting the sanitary arrangements of the fair and not to pay to enter the fair. All that is required is a ticket of admission in the names of the families of this description, is a ticket from Dr. Gibbs's, chairman of the fair board.

Gen. Sherman continues to keep ahead in this country for that gold-mine of a point at Bryant Hall. Gen. Obrey, late Chief of the 39th, has been here for a few days, and is at his usual form, being far ahead of all his party.

People generally do not seem to “see the point” of the fair, but when Gen. John A. Logan is coming to Fair, all our English people feel interested in this brave and gallant fair, and interesting in the most delightful manner, in which the fair is being conducted. One of them told us yesterday that she didn’t care. Grant, but she had a good swing, “which is almost as good.”

Why is "the prettiest little girl in Chicago" among them for himself, and you for her? in the exciting competition between the European and the fair of the department for the Fair, that $0,000,000 from the French income tax, is the only one that will receive that splendid price, and he considered the "prettiest" housekeeper.