THE WORLD HARVEST

Why yes," he replied, manifesting some sur-prise," but it has looked sort of dry in the other provinces. Some of the farmers have told me that the harvest is very poor this year. However, I am more interested in the global harvest these days. I have been reading about the effects of climate change on agriculture. It seems that the harvests in many parts of the world are affected by extreme weather conditions.

"Yes, the weather has been very unpredictable," said the man. "In some places, there has been too much rain, while in others, there hasn't been enough. It's a challenging time for farmers.""