The Great Sanitary Fair

The Great Sanitary Fair has drawn to its close in the course of the last week. A vast number of people were present daily at the fair, which opened on the 1st of August, and closed on the 10th inst. The fair was held in the Metropolitan Park, and was conducted by the Metropolitan Association for the Promotion of Sanitary Reform. The fair was a great success, and was attended by a large number of people from all parts of the country.

The fair was divided into three sections: the first, the Medical Section; the second, the Industrial Section; and the third, the Agricultural Section. Each section was well represented, and contained a large number of exhibits. The Medical Section was the largest, and contained a large number of pictures, models, and specimens of diseases, and the causes and effects of diseases. The Industrial Section was the next in size, and contained a large number of exhibits of machines, tools, and other articles of industry. The Agricultural Section was the smallest, but contained a large number of exhibits of crops, vegetables, and other agricultural products.

The fair was a great success, and was attended by a large number of people from all parts of the country. The fair was closed on the 10th inst., and the exhibits were removed to the Metropolitan Museum of Science and Art, where they will be on view for a period of six months.

The fair was a great success, and was attended by a large number of people from all parts of the country. The fair was closed on the 10th inst., and the exhibits were removed to the Metropolitan Museum of Science and Art, where they will be on view for a period of six months.

The fair was a great success, and was attended by a large number of people from all parts of the country. The fair was closed on the 10th inst., and the exhibits were removed to the Metropolitan Museum of Science and Art, where they will be on view for a period of six months.

The fair was a great success, and was attended by a large number of people from all parts of the country. The fair was closed on the 10th inst., and the exhibits were removed to the Metropolitan Museum of Science and Art, where they will be on view for a period of six months.