BLOODHOUND.

In the west wing towards the north end is on exhibition a bloodhound formerly kept at Castle Thunder, Richmond, for guarding Union prisoners. He is a fine specimen of "chivalry," weighing over two hundred pounds; when "irritated" he is strongly inclined to "hurt somebody," and will make most furious endeavors to break his chain, until bleeding at the nose and foaming at the mouth.
 He is evidently trained for "hunting niggers," and is as interesting as an illustration of the humanity and piety of the "peculiar institution."

NEW ENGLAND FARM HOUSE.

NO MORE HALF PRICE TO "AIDS."
 The ladies having in charge the Farm House, are compelled to announce a change n their arrangements, and desire so fully to explain the reason therefor, that no possible dissatisfaction or misunderstanding can arise. It having been published that "aids on duty" would receive meals at "half price," the ladies have cheerfully endeavored to carry out the arrangement thus far. But after a careful computation of the expenses incident to the Farm House, it is found impossible to continue it. The charge being so moderate—only seventy-five cents for dinner, and fifty cents for breakfast or supper—it must be seen that every meal furnished at half price is an actual sacrifice, and lessens the proceeds of this department. The ladies feel sorry to discontinue this arrangement, but, in justice to themselves and those who are donating to them, they feel compelled to do so, and after this day, (Wednesday) aids will be charged full price, just as they themselves pay when duty.
 Our friends may rest assured that we should not make this change unless it were absolutely necessary.
 LADIES OF THE NEW ENGLAND FARM HOUSE.
